EARLY MORNING E. 2ND BLAZE

Fire at building housing Colonial Flower Shop

By MARK CAMPBELL
Courier staff writer

A Wednesday morning fire heavily damaged the building that houses the Colonial Flower Shop on East Second Street in downtown Madison.

Firefighters were sent to the scene shortly after 5 a.m. and found the second floor of the east side of the structure fully engulfed in flames.

Because of the height of the structure, where the fire was located and the close proximity of several tall trees and other structures along Second Street, firefighters from Walnut Fire Company No. 4 were at first forced to battle the blaze from above using their 2007 American LaFrance tower ladder truck.

The ladder truck's massive pump platform was extended high above Second Street to stream water down on the rooftop and into second story windows as other firefighters worked to gain access from inside. A downed power line in one of the narrow walkways leading to the rear of the structure blocked access until a utility crew could shut off power.

The 6,482-square-foot, two-story brick building at 406 E. Second St., is owned by Jennifer Bates, who operates the first-floor florist shop on the west side of the structure. The remainder of the structure has at times served as a residence and apartments, but neighbors said they did not think there were any tenants in the upstairs apartments where the fire is believed to have started.

The commotion of multiple fire trucks and firefighters arriving at the scene, and the bright orange glow of the fire and heavy smoke drifting to the south, awakened several residents of the neighborhood who watched from their yards and the various alleys to the east and south of the structure.

Several of the residents said when they first saw the massive flames, their first thoughts were that it might be coming from the Prince of Peace Catholic Church, which is just across East Second Street from the building that burned. In fact, the church parking lot served as a staging area for many of the firefighters and their trucks as they battled the blaze until well past daybreak and were still at the scene Wednesday afternoon.

There were apparently no injuries in the blaze and a cause was not immediately determined. The fire remains under investigation by the Madison Fire Department.

Bar fugitive, friends charged with felonies

By MARK CAMPBELL
Madison Courier staff

Three people are now charged with multiple felonies after an incident more than 10 days ago in which a gun was fired in a Madison tavern, missing a woman but striking the wall next to her.

The shooting suspect who local authorities had been searching for since Thursday, Oct. 10 was arrested early Tuesday morning when officers apprehended him while serving a search warrant at a residence on Wolf Run Road in Jefferson County. The occupants of the residence on Wolf Run also were arrested.

Brandon M. Stephens, 42, of Madison, was wanted in connection with a shooting at the Central Hotel & Tavern, 310 Mulberry St., Madison, in the early morning hours of Oct. 10. Stephens is accused of pointing a gun and firing a bullet in the bar that narrowly missed Kristen Croxton who, according to a probable cause affidavit, had just informed Stephens that she was ending their romantic relationship.

Croxton and another witness said after Croxton told Stephens they were breaking up, he stood up and pulled a handgun from his waistband area and pointed it at her head. She turned her head away from the gun just as he fired the weapon and the bullet missed her but struck the wall next to her.

Madison Police Lt. Season Jackson later found a bullet hole in an electric sign and in the wall behind the sign at the bar.

Madison Det. Ricky Harris reviewed video surveillance at the bar that showed Stephens point a handgun at Croxton's head and the muzzle raise approximately an inch as he fired the gun with the bullet missing Croxton. The shell casing was recovered at the bar.

Stephens exited the tavern and left in a Chrysler New Yorker.

Police searched for him over the next 10 days. They sought help finding Stephens in both the news media and on social media — noting that he should be considered armed and dangerous — and followed leads both in Indiana and Kentucky until Madison Police received an anonymous tip on Monday, Oct. 21 that Stephens was staying with a man and woman named Billy and Beth in the China area of Jefferson County.

Police were able to corroborate that information and obtain a search warrant for the residence of Billy Joe and Beth Ann Penland of 5502 Wolf Run Road.

In addition, police were aware that Billy Penland apparently tried to recover Stephens' car at a local towing service after police had found the vehicle and impounded it pursuant to a search warrant.

Acting on that information, and the search warrant, a team of Madison Police Department Officers, Jefferson County Sheriff's Deputies, Madison detectives, Police Chief Jeremey Perkins and Assistant Chief Ben McKay executed the search warrant at 2:26 a.m. Tuesday, Oct. 22 at the Penland's mobile home on Wolf Run Road just off Manville Hill Road.

BETH ANN PENLAND

BILLY JOE PENLAND

Officers received no response from inside the residence after loudly knocking and eventually forced the door to find Stephens and the Penlands inside.

Stephens was arrested without incident on felony charges of attempted murder and criminal recklessness with a deadly weapon.

Beth Penland was interviewed by police and told them she was contacted by Stephens' sister, Heidi Sullivan. Penland said Sulllivan told her Stephens "had some troubles" and "needed a place to stay for a few days."

Beth Penland also told police she had later learned of Stephens' arrest warrant from a family member who saw a posting on Facebook. She said she confronted him and he told her he was going to surrender to police after retrieving his car and that he had a friend in the sheriff's department that he would call to come pick him up.

Stephens also told police he had intended to turn himself in to the sheriff's department once he had recovered the car, but the officer he knew did not answer his phone. He also said he did not think Billy or Beth Penland knew there was a warrant pending for his arrest.

During a search of the Penland home, police recovered a handgun from a nightstand next to where the Penlands were in bed. Billy Penland, who has previous felony convictions for breaking and entering, arson and prison escape, all in North Carolina, is unable to possess a weapon based on his status as a convicted felon. Beth Penland told police the firearm belonged to her.

Police charged Billy Joe Penland, 47, with possession of a firearm by a serious violent offender, a Level 4 felony and assisting a criminal, a Level 5 felony. Beth Ann Penland, 49, is charged with aiding, inducing or causing an offense (possession of a firearm by a serious violent felon), a Level 4 felony; and assisting a criminal, a Level 5 felony.

Zoning ahead for Trimble?

By COLLIN OVERTON
Madison Courier staff

Trimble County is one step closer to adopting a revised planning and zoning ordinance after meetings Monday and Tuesday night between county officials. But plans may also be underway to repeal the ordinance before it gets to the second reading.

The Planning and Zoning Commission voted Tuesday night to schedule the first reading of the revised ordinance for Nov. 4 and set the enforcement date for Jan, 1, 2020. Judge-Executive Todd Pollock said the meeting date isn't official, however, because he isn't sure whether the magistrates will be available. The reading may take place on a different date because of their availability, he said.

Fiscal Court may vote to repeal the ordinance at the same meeting, however. Magistrate J.D. Jones, who has opposed zoning in the county, requested Fiscal Court have a second repeal reading at the next meeting. Fiscal Court voted to repeal it a first time in July.

Commission Chair Mike Pyles read the revisions to members of Trimble County Fiscal Court the evening before, highlighting changes that make it less restrictive on residents and the protections it guarantees against future efforts for a "sludge" solid waste farm like R&R Septic and Excavation Services whotried moving into the county this summer.

Indiana's first flu death of season in Marion County

Indiana

INDIANAPOLIS — Health officials are reporting Indiana's first influenza-related death of the season in Marion County. The Marion County Public Health Department and the Indiana State Department of Health reported the death Tuesday and urged people to obtain flu shots to better protect themselves against the respiratory illness that can cause fever, cough, sore throat, body aches and fatigue. The Centers for Disease Control and Prevention recommends that anyone 6 months of age and older get a seasonal flu shot. It said vaccination is particularly important for people who are at high risk of serious complications from the flu, including people age 65 and older; peole of any age with certain chronic medical conditions such as asthma, diabetes, or heart disease; pregnant women; and children younger than 5.

Vehicle plunges from Indy parking garage, killing 2

INDIANAPOLIS — Firefighters say a motor vehicle has plunged from the fourth floor of a downtown Indianapolis parking garage, killing a man and a woman inside. The vehicle, which appeared to be an SUV, landed on its roof after falling shortly before 10 a.m. Wednesday from the Market Square Center Garage. The vehicle landed in an alley behind the City Market. It wasn't immediately clear how the vehicle fell from the garage. Indianapolis Fire Department Battalion Chief Rita Reith said code enforcement was on its way to check for structural damage to the garage, which has been temporarily closed.

Thousands still lack power in NW Indiana

MERRILLVILLE — Several thousand homes and businesses remain without power in northwestern Indiana, one day after high winds toppled power lines in the region. Northern Indiana Public Service Co.'s website shows that more than 7,000 of the utility's customers were still in the dark late Tuesday morning. High winds spawned by thunderstorms had cut power to more than 50,000 NIPSCO customers at one point Monday before crews began efforts to repair fallen power lines and damaged utility poles. Most of the remaining outages were in the city of Gary and adjacent East Chicago. The (Northwest Indiana) Times reported the outages forced Purdue University Northwest's Hammond campus to cancel all classes and activities Monday. But power to the campus has since been restored.

Indy pastor who defied IRS dead at age 87

INDIANAPOLIS — The Rev. Greg J. Dixon, founder of the Indianapolis Baptist Temple that federal marshals seized in a tax dispute, has died. He was 87. His son and successor as pastor, the Rev. Greg A. Dixon, told The Indianapolis Star his father died Sunday at an Indianapolis hospital.

The elder Dixon believed government holds no authority over the church, and his church refused to withhold taxes and Social Security payments from its employees' paychecks. U.S. District Judge Sarah Evans Barker ruled the Baptist Temple owed $6 million in back taxes and interest and in 2000 ordered members to vacate the church property on Indianapolis' south side. After 92 days, federal marshals seized the property on Feb. 13, 2001. The younger Dixon said the church subsequently relocated to a building it leases.

Fired Catholic school counselor files lawsuit

INDIANAPOLIS — A former guidance counselor at an Indianapolis Catholic high school who was fired for being in a same-sex marriage is suing the archdiocese. Shelly Fitzgerald's federal lawsuit names the Indianapolis archdiocese and Roncalli High School as defendants. It alleges that Fitzgerald was discriminated against and faced retaliation because of her sexual orientation. Fitzgerald married her wife, Victoria, in 2014. Fitzgerald had worked at Roncalli High School for 15 years before being placed on administrative leave last year because of her same-sex marriage. She was later fired. Her lawsuit, filed Monday, seeks unspecified damages, including for lost wages and emotional distress. The archdiocese said in a statement that the U.S. Supreme Court "has repeatedly recognized that religious schools have a constitutional right to hire leaders who support the schools' religious mission."

School bus carrying students runs into shop

INDIANAPOLIS — Indianapolis police say a school bus carrying about two dozen students crashed into a pawn shop, leaving most of the bus inside the business. Police said that no students were injured when the Indianapolis Public Schools bus plowed into the side of a Cash America Pawn store Tuesday morning. The bus driver also wasn't injured when it smashed into the brick building, leaving only the vehicle's rear end visible outside. The bus was later extracted from the building. IPS spokeswoman Carrie Black told WRTV-TV that 23 high school students were on the bus when it crashed about 7 a.m. Indianapolis police spokesman Officer Aaron Hamer said a car was also involved in the crash but officers are still investigating what led up to the bus crashing into the building.

Big changes for Louisville police amid budget cuts

LOUISVILLE— The Louisville police chief has announced a reorganization amid budget cuts and a shrinking workforce. News outlets reported Louisville Police Chief Steve Conrad said Tuesday that multiple divisions will merge by Dec. 1 to try to make the police department "leaner and more focused." Along with the mergers, Conrad said the agency will reorganize its command structure. The chief said the department had 1,260 sworn officers on staff last year and current staffing is at 1,189. He said the agency will continue to reduce staff as needed to fit the department's budget, which has decreased because of increasing pension and employee health care costs.

AG announces 2 drug-related settlements

FRANKFORT — Kentucky's attorney general has announced two separate settlements totaling nearly $40 million that involve a drug company and a drug distributor. Attorney General Andy Beshear said Wednesday his office has secured a $17 million settlement with Bayer Corp. over claims it misled women about risks associated with its birth control drugs, Yasmin and Yaz. The settlement resolves a 2013 lawsuit. Bayer did not admit liability as part of the settlement. Beshear said about $10 million of the settlement will be available for lawmakers to appropriate next year. The rest will go to the state's investigation costs and litigation fees. Beshear's office has recovered $22.7 million in state and federal Medicaid dollars in a settlement with a pharmaceutical distributor over marketing and promotion of Suboxone — used in treating opioid dependence.

Zoo's elephant calf has a name: Fitz

LOUISVILLE — A 2 ½-month-old elephant calf born at a Kentucky zoo is now known as Fitz, the namesake of a woman who was a fan of the pachyderms. The Louisville Zoo said the winner of its fundraising vote was Kristin Hays of Prospect for the name she submitted after her great-grandmother, who loved elephants. Zoo spokeswoman Kyle Shepherd said Hays originally said it was her great-grandfather but later said her sister corrected her. The contest raised $6,000 for the zoo. Norton Children's Hospital sponsored the naming contest for the calf born Aug. 2. And 23-month-old heart transplant recipient Eli Alexander and his family unveiled the winning name Tuesday. Fitz and his mother, Mikki, are on exhibit daily.

3 officers charged in overtime scheme

LOUISVILLE — Three current and former police officers in Kentucky are accused of defrauding the federal government. News outlets reported Brian Stanfield, Todd Roadhouse and Mark Final have each been charged with wire fraud. Federal prosecutors say they worked in the Louisville Police Department's narcotics division focused on fraudulent prescriptions, with Stanfield in charge. Court records say they submitted overtime requests for shifts never worked and were paid for regular shifts they also didn't work. Prosecutors say the men tried hiding the fraud committed between 2014 and 2017 by altering arrest records and reports. Stanfield and Roadhouse are retired. Final resigned Tuesday after being placed on leave. A plea hearing is set for next week. Attorneys for Stanfield and Roadhouse declined to comment. Final's attorney didn't respond to a request for comment.

Corrections officer fired after repeated violations

COVINGTON — A Kentucky corrections officer previously suspended for excessive use of force and several other violations was fired earlier this year over accusations of repeated insubordination on the job. An altercation with another guard preceded Daniel Nussbaum's firing from the Kenton County Detention Center in May, according to records recently obtained by the Cincinnati Enquirer through the Kentucky Open Records Act. Nussbaum had been the subject of numerous documented complaints during his time working for the corrections department, beginning in 2008. In March, and then again in April, he got into shouting arguments with two separate deputies and repeatedly failed to complete tasks required of him, policy violation reports revealed. Before that, Nussbaum was suspended for 30 days in 2018 for violating use-of-force policies.

Additional violations documented against Nussbaum include a 2018 written warning for failing to turn on his body camera to record an inmate encounter and a 2013 suspension for a fist fight with another deputy.

Sheriff says Michigan crop heists are 'major league operation'

DETROIT (AP) — A "well-organized machine" of thieves appears to be behind the theft of tons of apples and pumpkins from orchards and farms in Michigan and Indiana, according to authorities.

An estimated 7,000 pounds of apples were discovered missing Oct. 10 from Spicer Orchards in Fenton, Michigan. During the same week, 1,000 pumpkins were pilfered from McCallum's Orchard in Jeddo, about 15 miles north of Port Huron. There were also 50,000 apples reportedly stolen from Williams Orchard in LaPorte County, Indiana, just one mile south of the state line.

Genesee County Sheriff Robert Pickell told the Detroit Free Press that investigators do not have any suspects but that he believes the thefts were committed by a professional group.

"This is a major league operation," he said. "This is a team of pickers — a well-organized machine — with a way to put the stolen crops on the market."

Officials with Spicer Orchards said they will strengthen security with cameras and alarms, hoping to prevent future thieves.

"We just never in our lives thought we had to protect ourselves in this way. We didn't have cameras because we didn't think we needed them," said Shannon Rowe, co-owner of Spicer Orchards. "We're just a small family farm. We lived under the (idea that) everyone is good in this world and didn't think anything like this could happen. I guess we're just getting an education on the real world."

Raymond Peltier, owner of McCallum's Orchard, said his business is now being "forced" to take similar measures, which he called "unfortunate." Peltier, a disabled veteran, added the Disabled Veterans of America is helping him install cameras and other security devices.

Rowe said the crop thefts are frustrating because "you only have a few weeks to make your living for the entire year."

"Christmas isn't going to be so nice this year," she said. "We just hope that what we have on our main farm will help get us through."

Williams Orchard in Indiana could not be reached for comment.

Vigo County schools to cut $5.5 million

By SUE LOUGHLIN
(Terre Haute) Tribune-Star

The Vigo County School Corp. Tuesday outlined $5.5 million in spending cuts and revenue enhancements that involve three fewer elementary schools, selling the downtown administration building, cutting pay for top central office administrators and consolidating alternative education at the Booker T. Washington building.

The cuts, which are based on feedback provided at recent community meetings and would be implemented in three phases, were outlined at the end of the recent Vigo County School Board meeting; the board did not act on the proposal.

Some cuts in Phase 1 of the plan are already being implemented, while other "bigger pieces" require board approval.

"We're have tried to avoid layoffs and we're trying to protect the educational aspect of our operation," said VCSC superintendent Rob Haworth.

The recommendations, if approved, would be implemented over two to three years, which Haworth described as an ambitious timeline. The cuts are based on the assumption a $7 million operating referendum will pass.

If that referendum does not pass, Haworth indicated those needed cuts will increase to $8 million.

As far as school redistricting/consolidation, the district will create a voluntary Elementary School Reduction Task Force to identify school consolidation for Phases 2 and 3. It will include teachers, staff, administrators and residents and will "consider which schools will face redistricting and consolidation."

The district now operates 18 elementary schools. "Most of our peers based on enrollment operate 11. We have a larger area-based footprint than our peers, so 11 would be inappropriate for our district, but consolidating elementary schools is in our future," Haworth said.

Vacated school space would be used for office space, for for-profit daycares or for other uses identified by the school board. Displaced staff would fill open positions caused by retirements and resignations.

As part of Phase 2, the administration building would be sold and offices relocated to one of the repurposed buildings.

The cuts are in response to the district's declining cash balance, which has gone from $33.8 million in 2016 to a projected $13.5 million by the end of this year.

The reasons for the cash balance decline include enrollment loss, state funding that is not keeping up with inflation, declines in federal funding and staffing increases related to safety, health and wellness.

The district has a $7 million operational referendum on the ballot this fall, which would increase property taxes for eight years. It would support school safety, student health and wellness, transportation and teacher compensation, especially for beginning teachers.

Haworth described the referendum as a "bridge" while the district takes steps to right-size based on declining enrollment.

Key spending cuts proposed include:

• Reduction of administrative costs: $20,000 reduction in superintendent compensation; 4.75 percent salary cut for top central office administrators, including the deputy superintendent, director positions and curriculum coordinators; reduction of administrative positions through retirement/resignation.

• Consolidation of 18 elementary schools to 16 in Phase 2.

• Consolidation of 16 elementary schools to 15 in Phase 3.

• Alternative education redesign: Booker T. Washington hosts alternative education; traditional high schools host self-contained special education rooms; repurpose McLean for information technology staff, office space and potential lease/for-profit daycare.

• One year pause in bus replacement plan.

• Scrutiny of every position upon retirement.

Key revenue enhancements would include expansion of the Vigo Virtual Success Academy to K-12, then beyond Vigo County. Also, begin an International Exchange program in which enrolled students would pay tuition.

Plan for tax referendum in 2020

School closings ahead for South Bend

By ALLIE KIRKMAN
South Bend Tribune

With the budget projecting a loss of nearly $17 million next year, South Bend school leaders say drastic adjustments will have to be made across the district, including closing schools and asking city residents to approve additional tax support.

"I'm pretty sure you will have to look at closing a high school," Budget Director Jenise Palmer told the school board during its Oct. 14 meeting.

School Board President John Anella later said "buildings have to be closed," as the the district's K-12 school buildings "were built for 23,000 to 24,000 students" and now only 16,000 are enrolled.

"That's a huge physical presence," Anella said, "that is not being fully utilized."

Officials have used the term "rightsizing" and continue to say "nothing is off the table" when it comes to funding issues that stem from declining enrollment and property tax caps.

But no one is giving much detail or talking about which school buildings may close in the future.

School board member Oletha Jones said the conversation on school closures needs to be a top priority. The potential closing of a high school, she said, "should be the kind of topic and question we start posing to community members now."

"These decisions should rest in the hands of our community members. These are their schools," Jones said. "Cuts should be made based on their direct input and reactions, as well as the current data that shows exactly what we are dealing with today."

That transparency, Jones said, could help drive support as the district prepares to ask taxpayers for money for the school system via a referendum next spring.

South Bend schools' fall enrollment is at 15,900, down nearly 700 students from last year, resulting in a $4.7 million loss of state tuition support.

Demographers predict that by the end of next school year, 500 more students will leave, resulting in an additional $3.5 million loss to the district's education fund, designated for salaries and benefits, technology for students and educational support.

Revenue also looks bleak in the district's operations fund, designated for building maintenance and improvements and transportation. Most of its funding comes from St. Joseph County property taxes.

With the budget projecting a loss of nearly $17 million next year, South Bend school leaders say drastic adjustments will have to be made across the district, including closing schools and asking city residents to approve additional tax support.

Biogen reanalyzes studies, moves ahead on drug for Alzheimer's

By MARILYNN MARCHIONE
AP Chief Medical Writer

Biogen Inc. said Tuesday it will seek federal approval for a medicine to treat early Alzheimer's disease, a landmark step toward finding a treatment that can alter the course of the most common form of dementia.

The announcement was a surprise because the drug company earlier this year stopped two studies of the drug when partial results suggested it was not likely to be successful. The company now says a new analysis of more results suggest that the drug helped reduce a decline of thinking skills at the highest dose.

The drug, called aducanumab, aims to help the body clear harmful plaques from the brain. Cambridge, Massachusetts-based Biogen is developing it with a Japanese company, Eisai Co. Ltd.

More than 5 million people in the United States and millions more worldwide have Alzheimer's. Current drugs only temporarily ease symptoms and do not slow the loss of memory and thinking skills. Dozens of efforts to develop a drug to slow or reverse the course of the disease have failed.

The two studies tested aducanumab, given as monthly infusions, in more than 3,000 patients with mild cognitive impairment or early dementia due to Alzheimer's. The company said Tuesday that in one study, those given a high dose showed 23% less decline on one measure of thinking skills and smaller declines on other measures.

However, no details were given on how much that decline meant in absolute terms. For example, the company didn't say how much difference it made in practical matters, like whether patients were able to dress or feed themselves or live independently longer, just that these skills overall declined less for those on the high dose of the drug.

"It's a tricky question" whether the results are truly meaningful for patients until more details are known, said Dr. Ronald Petersen, a Mayo Clinic dementia specialist who has consulted for Biogen on the studies.

But filing for federal Food and Drug Administration approval "gives some hopes for patients and families that there may be disease-modifying therapies out there," he said.

The company said more details would be given at a conference in December, including on safety. The company said the most common side effects were inflammation in the brain, most of which did not cause symptoms or lasting problems, and headaches. The brain inflammation has been seen in other studies of Alzheimer's medicines that target the brain plaques.

"We're really encouraged by the information that they've provided today," the largest benefit so far for any experimental medicine, said Rebecca Edelmayer, a scientist at the Alzheimer's Association, which had no role in the studies.

Biogen said it would offer aducanumab now to patients enrolled in these and earlier studies of it.

Biogen shares were up more than 26% to $281.87 Tuesday, but some on Wall Street remained skeptical.

Mizuho Securities USA analyst Salim Syed said he wants to know more about the FDA's involvement in Biogen's decision. He also said in a research note that it's still just a hypothesis that removing beta amyloid plaques can benefit Alzheimer's patients.

The company's announcement "does not guarantee approval and questions remain," he said.

OCTOBER: TOBACCO

Healthy Lifestyles Monthly Health Message

Did you know? Cigarette smoking is the leading cause of preventable disease and death in the United States, accounting for more than 480,000 deaths every year, or about 1 in 5 deaths.

Why Should You Quit...

Your Health
As soon as you quit, your body begins to repair the damaged caused by smoking.

Your Wallet
The average cost of a pack of cigarettes is $6.28, which means a pack-a-day habit sets you back $188 per month or $2,292 per year. Ten years of smoking comes with a $22,920 price tag.

Your Convenience
Smoking is a hassle. Is standing in the cold and rain really worth having that cigarette?

Electronic Cigarettes Are NOT The Solution ...

E-cigarettes are not approved by the Food and Drug Administration (FDA) as a quit aid. Because of the unresolved safety concerns and research on e-cigarettes, it is recommended to avoid them.

Tips to Deal with Cravings ...

- Try Nicotine Replacement options like gum, patches, or medications.
- Stay busy.
- Remember the "D's" ...
  Delay
  Do something else for 10 minutes
  Drink lots of water
  Practice Deep breathing
- Avoid alcohol and other triggers.
- Keep your mouth busy with sugar-free mints, gum, or chew on a straw or coffee stirrer.
- Try and try again - don't give up!

2020 Census job recruitment underway

Census Bureau to hire 500,000 temporary workers in U.S.

From the Census Bureau

The U.S. Census Bureau has launched a national recruitment effort to hire about 500,000 temporary workers to help conduct the 2020 Census. Nearly 4,000 local recruiting events are scheduled to take place in communities across the nation.

"We need people to apply now so they can be considered for part-time census taker positions next spring," said Timothy Olson, Census Bureau associate director for field operations. "Recent high school graduates, veterans, retirees, military spouses, seasonal workers and applicants who are bilingual are highly encouraged to apply. It's important we hire people in every community in order to have a complete and accurate census."

Census Bureau officials were joined at a news conference by national and regional partners, including AARP, Boys & Girls Clubs of America, Arizona's Complete Count Committee and Arizona's Hispanic Chamber of Commerce.

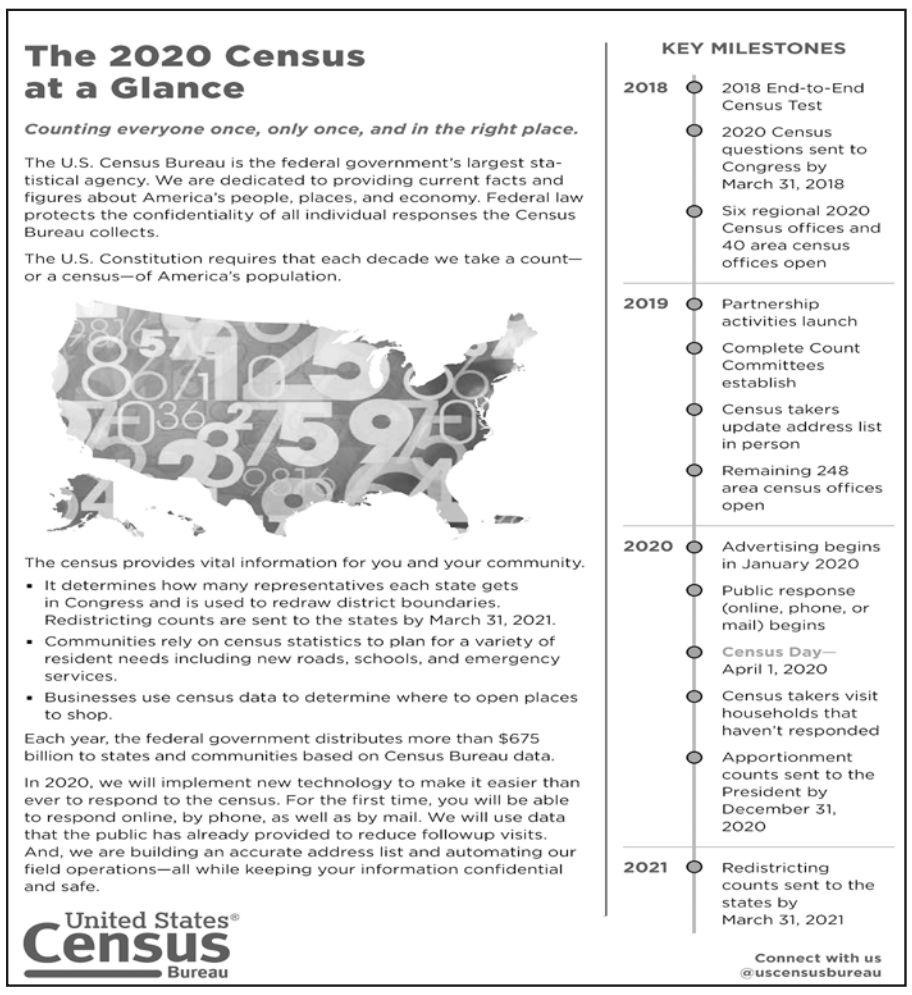
"As a trusted voice in communities around the country, Boys & Girls Clubs can help reach hard-to-count communities, ensuring an accurate census and snapshot of our population." said Julie Teer of Boys & Girls Clubs of America.

Census takers will be hired to work in their communities and go door to door to collect responses from those who do not respond to the 2020 Census online, by phone or by mail. These positions offer competitive pay, flexible hours, paid training and weekly paychecks.

The selection process for census taker positions begins in January 2020, with paid training occurring in March and April. Actual enumeration of non-responding households throughout the nation begins in May through early July. Check out the 2020 Census website for listings of available census taker and other jobs.

"AARP knows that historically 50% of census takers are over the age of 50 and many are retirees," said Dana Marie Kennedy, state director, AARP Arizona. Most households in the nation will receive invitations in the mail to respond (online, by phone or by mail) in March 2020. The Census Bureau will begin advertising nationwide in January 2020 to increase awareness about the importance and benefits of participating in the 2020 Census.

The U.S. Constitution mandates that a census of the population be conducted once every 10 years. Census data are used to determine congressional representation in the states and how billions of dollars in federal funds are distributed to states and local communities every year.



The 2020 Census at a Glance
Counting everyone once, only once, and in the right place.
The U.S. Census Bureau is the federal government's largest statistical agency. We are dedicated to providing current facts and figures about America's people, places, and economy. Federal law protects the confidentiality of all individual responses the Census Bureau collects.
The U.S. Constitution requires that each decade we take a count—or a census—of America's population.
The census provides vital information for you and your community.
• It determines how many representatives each state gets in Congress and is used to redraw district boundaries. Redistricting counts are sent to the states by March 31, 2021.
• Communities rely on census statistics to plan for a variety of resident needs including new roads, schools, and emergency services.
• Businesses use census data to determine where to open places to shop.
Each year, the federal government distributes more than $675 billion to states and communities based on Census Bureau data.
In 2020, we will implement new technology to make it easier than ever to respond to the census. For the first time, you will be able to respond online, by phone, as well as by mail. We will use data that the public has already provided to reduce followup visits. And, we are building an accurate address list and automating our field operations—all while keeping your information confidential and safe.

Additional Tips
■ Scratch out all identifying information on the prescription drug to make it unreadable. This will help to protect your identity and the privacy of your personal health information.
■ You must not share your prescription drugs – they were prescribed to you.

Drug take back Saturday Oct. 26

The Drug Enforcement Administration and law enforcement forces throughout the country are offering a chance to get rid of pills, cough syrup, and other unwanted medications that have been piling up around homes.

National Prescription Drug Take-Back Day will be from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. Saturday, Oct. 26. This event is one of the few days of the year in which residents can drop off expired or unused prescription medications without having to wonder whether they will be accepted; even controlled substances, such as ADHD drugs, will be accepted.

The collection is intended for liquid and pill medications only and will not accept new or used needleS.

Citizens wishing to participate in this program may drop off their prescription drugs for disposal at any Indiana and Kentucky State Police posts and at other law enforcement offices and sites.

It is unsafe to keep expired, unused or unwanted prescription drugs in your house. Flushing drugs down the sink or toilet is potentially very harmful to water treatment facilities. This is an opportunity to properly dispose of prescription drugs with no questions asked.

Red Bicycle Hall marks five years on Madison music scene

By CHARLIE ROHFING

Remember when you were a kid and you'd get your friends together and work up a "show" that you could perform in the garage or basement for your parents and neighbors? We all did it. But in the case of Kevin Watkins, lead partner at Red Bicycle Hall, that impulse never really left him.

"Theater is kind of in my blood," said Kevin. "I met my wife, Margo, at a play audition, and I've always enjoyed sharing great live entertainment with other people. Soon after we moved to Madison, Margo and I put on a variety show at the Ohio Theater called 'The Love Thang.' We wrote it, held auditions, the whole process. We sold out two nights.

"As the years went on, we produced other shows here in town. We did 'Wilderness Plots' in 2009 at the Ohio, then we did a show called Pure Prine in a big vacant building on Main Street.

"But I wanted my own dedicated space. I wanted a classic downtown venue where I could set up chairs for 200 folks and present my vision for musical theater. Providence intervened I suppose, because that very same vacant building where I did the Prine show came up for auction.

"I had to act quickly, so I started rounding up potential partners. My friends Keith and Melinda Acree know a lot about old buildings. My mom and stepdad, Carol Ann and Buck Rogers, are adept at maintenance and remodeling. My friends Bill Lancton and Tony Novello are music guys. And my friend Charlie Rohlfing knows how to do everything. Just ask him!

"Our very first show as Red Bicycle Hall was 'O Madison Where Art Thou,' in late 2013, but we really got going in 2014. This year marks our fifth anniversary. It's been an amazing ride so far, and there's no end in sight.

"I lean more toward the theatrical events, like Madison Graffiti, The Last Waltz, and the big Woodstock show we did recently. Tony Novello brings in more of the original bands and artists.

"I have to say, I don't know of any other place putting on the kinds of original live productions that we do. It's a place where you can sit and listen to music purely for the sake of the music.

"We do have a bar, but we're not a bar. Our sole purpose is entertainment. I like to think of it as our sandbox, our playground, where we invite friends to come and watch a show with us.

"A good example is the Jesus Christ Superstar show we did a few years ago. When the final note sounded people just sat spellbound. They were totally immersed. You don't miss a note, and the furthest seat in the house is no more than 50 feet from the performers.

"I like to say you could drive hundreds of miles to some big arena or stadium for some expensive show, and you won't beat the quality and the intensity of the experience you can get right here in downtown Madison, Indiana."

On another note, the brand new Mad Hop Music Fest is just two weekends away, on Nov. 2. This event is all indoors at five downtown venues, features 25 bands in eight hours, and tickets are going fast at $25 each. Go to MadHopMusicFest.com for more info.

KEVIN WATKINS

It's Halloween weekend, and the granddaddy of Madison costume parties is the 24th annual shindig Saturday at Thomas Family Winery. Bill Lancton and Jimmy Davis will have the place rocking.

The VFW also is having a costume party Saturday with Diamondback. And if you want to get an early start on the weekend, Friday Red Bicycle Hall is featuring the zombie rockabilly band, the Nuly Dedz, with special guests Snaps for Sinners.

Charlie Rohlfing is a stalwart of the RiverRoots Festival committee, a campfire guitar strummer, and a partner in The Red Bicycle Hall music venue. Look for his distinctive fedora bobbing above the crowd, anywhere live local music is happening. Find him out and about or at charlie@madisoncourier.com

SECTIONAL FRIDAY

Madison, Switzerland ready to kick off tourney runs

By DAVID CAMPBELL
Courier Staff Writer
dcampbell@madisoncourier.com

Madison's football team recently completed its third-straight one-win season, but all of that will be forgotten if the Cubs can pull out a win in their sectional opener on Friday.

Madison (1-8) hosts Greenwood (3-6) in the quarterfinals of Class 4A Sectional 23 at 7 p.m. The game marks only the second time the two schools have met on the gridiron with the Woodmen picking up a 14-6 win in 1986, also in sectional play.

Madison has had a hard time in coach Leroy Wilson's first season at the helm. Other than a close 34-26 loss to Paoli in the season opener and a shocking 21-20 win over Bedford North Lawrence, the Cubs have been on the wrong side of blowouts throughout the campaign. Seven of Madison's eight losses have come by at least 28 points.

But there is reason to be optimistic. Wilson has put an extremely young team on the field and while it has resulted in its fair share of lumps, the Cubs have also shown flashes of the talent that lie underneath the inexperience.

Trenton Barnes has done a little of everything for Madison. The junior leads the team in rushing with 532 yards and three scores and has also caught 19 passes for 231 yards. He also has two interceptions on defense.

Junior Parker Jones, getting his first taste of quarterback after playing wide receiver his first two seasons, has thrown for 1,218 yards this season

Trimble no match for powerful North Oldham

Mustangs roll to three-set sweep in semifinals

CRESTWOOD, Ky. — North Oldham entered the district volleyball tournament as the favorite and showed why, rolling past an overmatched Trimble County squad to the tune of a three-game sweep in the semifinals at South Oldham on Monday.

Trimble County did its best to play with the Mustangs early in each set but in the end, North simply powered its way to the victory by scores of 25-7, 25-6 and 25-7.

"One of their players is seventh out of 30 (in the state) in kills and their team is seventh overall in team kills," Trimble coach Tayra Crawford said. "They're a very developed team. They play very well together."

Trimble County (1-23) stayed with the Mustangs through the first dozen points in two of the three sets but couldn't hold back the tide forever.

In the opener, Trimble held a 6-5 lead and trailed only 10-7 before North Oldham ripped off a 15-point run to close the set and claim the win.

The second set was the worst for the Raiders, who fell behind 5-1 and never recovered, losing by 19. Set three looked a lot like the first with Trimble trailing only 6-5 and yet the Raiders eventually fell by 18.

In each case it was North Oldham's hitting and serving that proved to be the difference. The Mustangs missed only five serves on the night while collecting 16 aces and also dishing out 32 kills.

Trimble, meanwhile, attempted only

Soto, Nats top Astros in Game 1

By BEN WALKER
AP Baseball Writer

HOUSTON — Juan Soto and the Washington Nationals quickly derailed the Cole Express.

A 20-year-old prodigy with a passion for the big moment, Soto homered onto the train tracks high above the left field wall and hit a two-run double as the Nationals tagged Gerrit Cole and the Houston Astros 5-4 Tuesday night in the World Series opener.

"After the first at-bat, I just said, 'It's another baseball game,'" said Soto, who sent his opposite-field drive on a long ride. "In the first at-bat, I'm not going to lie, I was a little bit shaking in my legs."

Not even a history-making home run by postseason star George Springer — and another shot that nearly tied it in the eighth inning — could deter Washington.

Ryan Zimmerman, still full of sock at 35, also homered to back a resourceful Max Scherzer and boost the wild-card Nationals in their first World Series appearance — tres bien for a franchise that began as the Montreal Expos in 1969.

"They waited a long time," Nationals manager Dave Martinez said.

Otherworldly almost all season, Cole looked downright ordinary. Trea Turner singled on the second pitch of the game and the Nationals were off and running, ending Cole's 19-game winning streak that stretched back 25 starts to May.

"I didn't have my A-game tonight," Cole said.

Not what Cole or anyone else at Minute Maid Park expected, especially after he led the majors in strikeouts, topped the AL in ERA and finished second in the big leagues in wins to teammate Justin Verlander.

Cole had breezed through the AL playoffs, too.

Yet it was a further testament to an eternal truth about baseball: It doesn't matter what you do the whole season

Bengals' winless season looks so familar

By JOE KAY
AP Sports Writer

CINCINNATI — Fans in Bengals jerseys hiding their heads under bags. Numb players talking about looking in the mirror. Coaches promising changes, knowing full well they have no magic bag of tricks to save the season.

It's oh-so-familiar in Cincinnati.

A 27-17 loss to the Jaguars left the Bengals 0-7 and deeply mired in a season that looks, sounds and feels like so many others in the franchise's futility since 1990. The Bengals were so bad on Sunday in front of a small crowd at Paul Brown Stadium that first-year coach Zac Taylor wound up talking about keeping the team from fragmenting.

"You have a choice: You either stand up and do the right thing and keep fighting for all the work we put in — players, coaches, everyone in this building — or you start quitting, start giving less effort, start pointing fingers, start complaining about everything that's going on," Taylor said. "Those are the only two choices we've got right now.

"I know a lot of guys I'm counting on in that locker room to pick the right one and keep building this thing and find our first win."

What's the best chance for that first win? Well, the schedule in December includes games against the Jets, the Browns and the also-winless Dolphins. So there's hope, though it's a very long way down the road.

For now, it's about chronicling the depths. They've already put up one of the seven worst starts in club history. The Bengals have opened 0-7 six times since 1990, the last season they won a playoff game. One more loss season if you don't get it done in October.

"I think he's been so good for so long that there builds this thought of invincibility and that it's impossible to beat him," Astros manager AJ Hinch said. "So when it happens it is a surprise to all of us because we've watched for months this guy completely dominate the opposition."

Soto finished with three hits and a stolen base. Three days shy of his 21st birthday, the wunderkind left fielder also snared Michael Brantley's late try for a tying hit.

Relentless at the plate, he's already become one of those rare players — like Springer — who seems to turn pressure into production.

How's he do it? Better launch angle? Improved swing path?

Uh, not really.

"Sometimes I just put gum in my mouth," Soto said. "But most of the time, just take a deep breath and focus. It's just the pitcher and me."

"Everybody around, I forget about everybody around. It's just you and me," he said, adding, "try to enjoy it."

The MVP when Houston won its first crown in 2017, Springer set a record by connecting in his fifth straight Series game to make it 5-3 in the seventh. But reliever Daniel Hudson threw a fastball past rookie Yordan Álvarez with the bases loaded to end the inning.

In the eighth, Springer put a charge into a drive to deep right-center, and it appeared as though he might've hit a tying, two-run homer. Springer took a couple of hops out of the batter's box to watch, and had to settle for an RBI double when the ball glanced off the glove of a leaping Adam Eaton at the fence.

Heavily favored at the start, the 107-win Astros will try to get even Wednesday night when Verlander faces Stephen Strasburg in another matchup of aces.

Scherzer slipped in and out of trouble for five innings. But every time the stadium got rollicking, he found a way to get out of jams. There's a reason ol' Max has won three Cy Young Awards.

"We got old and young guys," Scherzer said.

Projected Game 4 starter Patrick Corbin threw a scoreless sixth for the Nationals. Springer connected off Tanner Rainey for his 14th career postseason home run before Hudson fanned Álvarez on three pitches.

Hudson retired José Altuve, and Sean Doolittle got Brantley on a lineout to strand Springer at second in the eighth. Doolittle then closed for a save to give the Nationals their seventh straight victory and 17th in 19 games dating to their September playoff run.

Leading the way was Soto, whose eighth-inning hit in the wild-card win over Milwaukee sent the Nationals on their path.

"He's got kind of the 'it' factor," Hinch said. "He's got the twitch. He's got fast hands. He's got no fear."

Soto looked overmatched when he fanned on Cole's 99 mph heater in the first inning. Turned out Soto was just getting warmed up.

Soto justified his place in the 4-spot, launching a leadoff drive in the fourth onto the train tracks to make it 2-all. He became the fourth-youngest player to homer in the Series, behind Andruw Jones, Miguel Cabrera and Mickey Mantle.

A while later, the ball was still resting there when the Nationals took the lead. Eaton hit a tiebreaking single in the fifth and Soto doubled with two outs for a 5-2 lead.

After the game, Soto agreed to donate his home run ball to the Hall of Fame in Cooperstown.

Zimmerman hit the first World Series homer in Nationals history, connecting in the second. He was the first player drafted by the team for the 2005 season.

"It's been a long ride," Zimmerman said.

Cole left after the seventh, getting a pat from Hinch in the dugout. Watching from the front row behind the plate was someone who also knows a lot about pitching — Astros executive, Texas great and Hall of Famer Nolan Ryan, the Ryan Express himself.

Yuli Gurriel put Houston ahead with a two-run double in the first.

•Bengals

would leave them 0-8 for the sixth time in club history.

WHAT'S WORKING

Kevin Huber's punting. He was Cincinnati's MVP on Sunday, pinning the Jaguars on their 3-, 1- and 9-yard lines in the first half, allowing Cincinnati to lead 7-6 at the break.

WHAT NEEDS HELP

The offensive line makes its weekly appearance in this category. The mess starts up front. Left tackle Cordy Glenn was suspended Sunday after missing the first six games with a concussion. Left tackle Andre Smith was sidelined by an ankle injury. The line got no push in the running game, and Dalton was repeatedly pressured. Until that part gets fixed, things aren't going to get better.

STOCK UP

Alex Erickson had a career day with eight catches for 137 yards, nearly half of the Bengals' total of 291 yards.

STOCK DOWN

Andy Dalton, with an enormous asterisk. The onus to move the offense has fallen on Dalton, who has no running game to rely on and little time to throw . With receiver A.J. Green injured, teams are able to focus on Tyler Boyd and force the rest of the receivers to make plays, which they haven't done with any consistency. Also, the tight ends are used as blockers to help the line, reducing their availability — they caught three passes combined Sunday. The Bengals have thrown the ball on 69 percent of their plays, the most in the league. Until Dalton gets some help, it's a hopeless situation.

"To drop back and throw it 41 times isn't sustainable," offensive coordinator Brian Callahan said Monday. "It's not a winning formula by any metric."

KEY NUMBER

0 — Net yards by Bengals runners other than Dalton. Shocking, but true. The Bengals managed only 33 yards rushing against the Jaguars, all of them by Dalton. Another bad number: 4, the times Cincinnati has been held under 35 yards rushing this season. The Bengals are by far the worst rushing team in the league. Also, they have the worst rushing defense.

23 serves in the match and had only one kill.

It wasn't a surprising outcome. With a young roster of youthful and inexperienced players, Trimble entered the match with only one win and had to face a team that had been ranked in the top 10 most of the season.

But wins and losses weren't the biggest priority for Trimble this season as Crawford and her coaching staff attempted to rebuild the program.

"It was really learning how to play together and adjust because many of the girls haven't played in a rotation with one another," Crawford said. "We lost our varsity setter who transferred and Savannah (Crawford) and Danielle (Craig) kind of took over setting and tried to get experience. We just worked on acquiring those skills that we need."

Savannah Crawford was 5-for-5 serving for Trimble while Maggie Ginn was 4-for-5 serving with an ace. Megan Gonterman was 3-for-3 serving, Emalin Cull was 2-for-2, Danielle Craig was 2-for-2 and Emma Horn was 2-for-3.

Emily Goddin went 30-for-31 serving with 11 aces and added seven kills for North Oldham while Halle Adams was 13-for-14 serving with an ace. Kelsey Hillebrand had seven kills while Jordan Atchinson and Meredith Kovarovic added five kills each.

North Oldham (22-8) advances to the championship where it will take on South Oldham (19-12), a 27-25, 25-23, 25-18 winner over Oldham County in the championship on Wednesday.

on 104-of-202 passing. He has seven touchdowns and 10 interceptions but has eclipsed 200 yards twice in games this season.

Two of Jones' top targets this season have been freshmen. Collin Yancey leads the team in receptions with 26 and has collected a team-high 415 yards and has scored three touchdowns. Louis Humes, who has also scored on a kickoff return and an interception return this season, has 15 receptions for 228 yards and two scores.

Senior Bryce Foy has 24 receptions for 153 yards and a score and junior Luke McCarty has caught 13 passes for 154 yards and a touchdown.

The Greenwood team Madison will face comes in hobbled with nine starters out with injuries, including junior running back Ethan Haessig, who has 890 yards on 161 attempts and has scored 10 touchdowns.

Without Haessig, who has an injured shoulder, Greenwood will rely in its passing game. Senior quarterback Oliver Rau has completed 69-of-146 passes this year for 977 yards and six touchdowns. Rau has also rushed for 220 yards on 28 attempts, second-most to Haessig on the team.

Senior Bryce Hoffman is Rau's top target, catching 16 passes for 256 yards. Jaydin Shepperd has 14 receptions for 171 yards and two touchdowns.

The winner of this game will get the distinction of playing either Class 4A No. 2 East Central (9-0) or Silver Creek (8-1) in the semifinals next week.

Class 2A Sectional 39 Switzerland vs. Paoli

Switzerland County (5-4) finished the regular-season with three-straight losses but will have a chance to pick up its first-ever postseason win when it hosts Paoli (5-4) in the opener of Class 2A Sectional 39 on Friday.

The Pacers started the season red-hot, winning their first four games and even getting a vote in the state poll. But Switzerland hit its roughest stretch of the season with losses to South Decatur, Class A No. 10 North Decatur and Milan to close the campaign and have been shutout over the last 10 quarters.

Switzerland has had its most success this season through the air. Junior quarterback Damion Courter has thrown for 1,374 yards this season on 97-of-191 passing with 17 touchdowns and seven interceptions. Freshman Hunter Records has had a breakout rookie campaign, catching 35 passes for 617 yards and five touchdowns.

When the Pacers aren't passing the ball, Tre Batchelor has handled the bulk of the running duties, rushing 69 times for 380 yards and four touchdowns.

Paoli, which won the sectional title a year ago, relies on junior Caleb VanMeter for most of its offense. The quarterback has completed 32-of-58 passes for 444 yards this season, but has done most of his damage with his legs, collecting 787 yards on 112 attempts. He has scored a total of nine touchdowns.

Senior Hobie Bobbitt has added 466 yards rushing for the Rams and has scored 13 times. Aron Busick leads the team in receptions with 17 for 314 yards and four touchdowns.

The winner between Switzerland and Paoli faces the either Mitchell or Triton Central in the semifinals.

Michigan St. No. 1, UK No. 2

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

There isn't much Michigan State has yet to accomplish under Hall of Fame coach Tom Izzo, from Big Ten titles and Final Four trips to winning a national championship.

The Spartans can now add another milestone to the list: They are No. 1 in The Associated Press Top 25 men's college basketball preseason poll for the first time in program history.

The Spartans were the overwhelming choice with their veteran returnees led by star Cassius Winston. They topped 60 of 65 ballots in voting results released Monday, easily outdistancing No. 2 Kentucky and No. 3 Kansas as the only other teams to receive first-place votes.

Duke was fourth, followed by Louisville, Florida, Maryland, Gonzaga, North Carolina and Villanova to round out the top 10.

Michigan State had been ranked No. 1 for 12 weeks in the AP poll before Monday. But none had come in the preseason poll, with the Spartans starting at No. 2 four times in the past decade.

Roughly half of the voters (33 of 65) chose Michigan State, Kentucky and Kansas in some order atop their ballot. Kentucky received two first-place votes, while Kansas received the other three.

It marks the ninth straight year that John Calipari's Wildcats have been a top-five preseason pick and seventh in a row for Bill Self's Jayhawks, who open the season with the program facing NCAA charges tied to a federal corruption investigation into the sport.

Kansas and Duke open their seasons against each other on the same bill with Michigan State-Kentucky.

Trinity UMC hosts memorial services for tiny angels

The third annual "Remembering Our Angels" memorial service will be at Trinity United Methodist Church, 412 W. Main Street, Oct. 26 at 4 p.m. Everyone is welcome to come and light a candle for a beloved baby lost to miscarriage, stillbirth, SIDS or death of a newborn. .

October is Pregnancy and Infant Loss Awareness Month, declared by President Ronald Reagan in 1988. The speaker this year for the local service is Mike Mueller, grandfather to an angel. He and his family came to the service last year and he volunteered to speak this year. The Rev. Dennis W. Ingle Sr., the pastor at Trinity, will lead the prayers. Fern Sexton will play piano and Kelley Hoagland will be the soloist.

The event is organized by Stephanie Hellmann, who volunteers with Now I Lay Me Down to Sleep – a nonprofit organization providing the free gift of professional portraits to families who request the service after a stillbirth or infant loss. The international organization strives to bring awareness to pregnancy and infant loss during the month of October through ceremonies, special events and remembrance walks and other activities.

PETS OF THE WEEK

PERSEPHONE

Hi, my name is Persephone. Yes I am a goddess. I am an energetic young girl who loves to give hugs and kisses. I really like making new friends and getting belly rubs. I have been tested around cats, and I was very friendly with them. I can't guarantee that I won't chase if it runs though. So come visit me at the shelter and we can be best friends.

There are many cats now at the shelter. At the moment, only Sunday appointments are open.

The Madison-Jefferson County Animal Shelter now has 12 dogs or puppies, and 35 cats or kittens available. Pictures of additional pets waiting for adoption can be viewed at www.sisaveapet.com

Regular shelter hours are Monday, Thursday and Friday from noon to 5 p.m., Wednesday from 1 p.m. to 7 p.m., Saturday from noon to 4 p.m., and Sunday from noon to 3 p.m. It is closed Tuesday. The shelter number is (812) 273-1788 and the email is animal.shelter39@jefferson-county.in.gov

All cats and kittens are $45 off unless they are already spay or neutered. Discount is courtesy of the Animal Shelter and the Jefferson County Humane Society.

Volunteers are always welcome at the shelter. Individuals must be at least 16 years old to volunteer. Volunteers can help with everyday cleaning, answering phones, and exercising the pets. Contact the shelter for details.

The shelter is a registered organization with the Kroger Community Rewards program. To support the shelter, register a Kroger card at www.krogercommunityrewards.com and enter FL919.

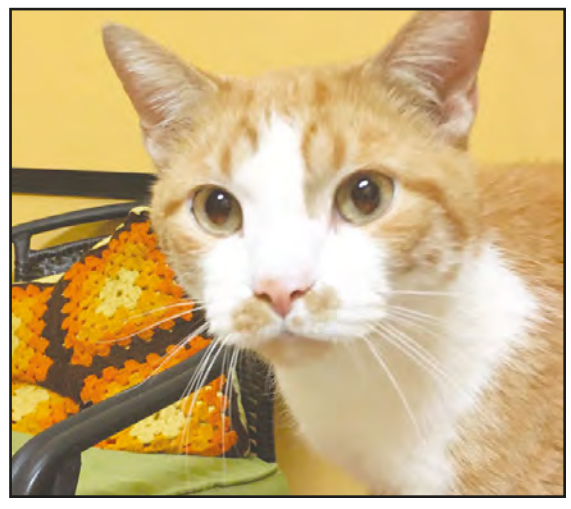
Support the shelter while walking your dog. Use the "Walk for a Dog" or "Woof-Trax" app available through the App Store or Google Play. For each mile walked, a donation is made to the shelter.

A list of needed items can be found on the shelter website. Donations can be mailed to 2727 Hannah Drive, Madison, IN 47250 or dropped off during shelter hours. The shelter also accepts aluminum and steel cans, which are recycled and the proceeds put toward the medical fund. The shelter asks that aluminum and steel donations be separated. Steel cans should also be rinsed before they are dropped off. Cans can be dropped off at anytime in a bin located on the east side of the shelter.

Those with missing pets can stop by the shelter, call or email a complete description of the pet, when and where it was last seen, the owner's name and contact information, and a picture of the pet. Pets are held for three days before they are made available for adoption.

Animals should not be abandoned outside of the shelter or dropped off at the shelter after hours.

For animal control issues in Madison, call (812) 265-3347. For animal control issues in Hanover and Jefferson County, call (812) 265-2648.



LESTER

I'm a beautiful orange and white boy. I have a cute little mustache.

I love people! I will do anything to get your attention. I am a very friendly cat.

UPDATE! I have been neutered and got my rabies shot so I'm only $45 to adopt!

Canned adult dog food and plain clay kitty litter are needed at the shelter.

BRIDGE

HOW DOES THE LEAD HELP THE DECLAR-

Desmond Morris, an English zoologist, said, "We never stop investigating. We are never satisfied that we know enough to get by. Every question we answer leads on to another question. This has become the greatest survival trick of our species."

Bridge players should think like that. Unless you are certain that you have worked out the right line of play or defense, keep investigating.

In today's deal, how should South survive in three no-trump after West leads the heart two?

In the bidding, over East's takeout double, South made the auction easier for his side by rebidding one no-trump. But if he had passed, North would have made a takeout double, saying that he wished to compete in the auction. South would have bid one no-trump, and North would have jumped to game.

South starts with seven top tricks: one spade, one heart, one diamond and four clubs. Three or four more tricks can come from the diamonds. But given East's takeout double, the diamond finesse will probably fail. Then, maybe the defenders will cash too many tricks.

Next, read the lead. West led the heart two. So, the hearts must be dividing 4-4. If declarer wins the first trick and takes the diamond finesse, he will lose at most one diamond and three hearts.

Can it cost to duck trick one?

Yes! An East in midseason form will shift to the spade king at trick two. Then the contract should fail. South will take the losing diamond finesse and watch the defenders collect five winners: one heart (trick one), one diamond and three spades.

Infidelity should be added to list of horrendous traumas

Annie Lane

Dear Annie: Soldiers still cry 50 years after their experiences with horrendous trauma. The letter writer, "Grieving," is touched forever, too, by her trauma.

The list goes on and on of the many things that people experience that they find very difficult to "get over." Most people are sensitive enough to realize which traumas are the ones that affect the suffering person for many, many years.

I'd like to add one trauma that I find gets zero sympathy from others – infidelity. My husband cheated on me when I was seven months pregnant with our second child. When he informed me about it, he added that he had "never loved me," and, when I asked, he said that yes, he "loved his mistress." This came as a complete shock to me. In fact, I shook so violently that I saw a doctor the next day, fearing that I might lose the baby, and I was put on tranquilizers. Once on them, I could barely care for my oldest child.

We parted for a while and, during that period of time, I felt as if he had died. In addition, I felt that he had gone out of his way to hurt me on purpose. My "best friend" never contacted me after finding out. My mother-in-law called me a "heathen." My parents eventually said they could help me but only for a while – not for any length of time. I had no one else to count on or even talk to.

At that point, I spent a night thinking about the gun kept in our closet and using it on myself to end my hopeless future.

I reconsidered, after thinking about who would care for my older child. I absolutely did not want this mistress raising my baby. Yes, the mistress knew I was pregnant. There is much more ugliness to this story, but my point is that for more than 50 years I've suffered in silence. At my prompting, we tried to make a go of the marriage, but it has been a pretentious sham from that moment on.

Did I lose whatever love existed between us? Yes. I cry at weddings when people promise to love and be faithful for the rest of their lives. I cry at shows that bring back the memories.

Do I think my children appreciate what I felt I did for them? I told them when they were adults, and no, I don't think they realize the gravity of the situation at the time.

Therapists? The last one announced, "What needs to be done here is for you to forgive your husband." What about his learning to be ashamed and make things better with what he has said since?

Spouses of cheaters don't get any sympathy, help or chances to talk it out with friends. People seem to think this is one trauma that gets healed on its own. -- Still Hurting

Dear Still Hurting: I am very sorry that you suffered from emotionally shocking and painful distress. You are correct that infidelity, while you were pregnant and completely alone -- combined with hearing that your husband loved his mistress and didn't love you -- constitutes a trauma.

But I would suggest examining why your therapist advised, "What needs to be done here is for you to forgive your husband."

It is not to get your husband off the hook for what he did to you, but to get yourself off the hook. Holding a grudge is hurting you more than anyone else. As Mark Twain wrote, "Anger is an acid that can do more harm to the vessel in which it is stored than to anything on which it is poured."

Theologian Lewis B. Smedes added, "To forgive is to set a prisoner free and to discover that the prisoner was you."
